

Pelicam Project Assurance chooses Lifelites as their charity partner

Pelicam – a specialist project assurance company which helps major organisations deliver complex projects – have selected Lifelites as their very first chosen charity to be the focus for their staff's fundraising.

Pelicam who, as the providers of IT related Project Intelligence to major businesses, understand the importance of technology for the way we work and play and the work of Lifelites using technology to enhance the lives of children in hospices

Chief Executive of Lifelites, Simone Enefer-Doy, says "It's amazing that Pelicam have chosen Lifelites. We are really excited about working with their staff and making lots of new friends."

"We chose to work with Lifelites because there is a perfect synergy between Pelicam, as the providers of IT related Project Intelligence to major corporations, and Lifelites charity cause " explained Peter Mayer, Managing Partner. "We understand the importance of communications and through Lifelites we are helping provide children with life limiting illnesses to keep in contact with friends, family and school whilst they are receiving respite care".

"We at Pelicam are looking forward to working with friends, families, colleagues and the local communities to support such a worthwhile charity," added Peter.
